Glow Golf!

On the evening of September 12, the temps were warm, the sky was clear, and the air was still. In short, it was a perfect night to go golfing. What's that you say? Sure the weather was great, but golfing at night? C'mon. But when you think about it, all you need is a golf ball that glows in the dark, and some magical way to light up the flag on the green, and maybe a little something to light yourself up so others can see you. So Sunnybrook provided the ball, glowing necklaces, and glow tube wrapping for the green flags. And we were in business.

With exactly 16 participants, we divided into four complete foursomes. After being treated to hot dogs and soft drinks, we were led out to our respective starting tees for a shotgun start.

Because a Glow Golf ball doesn't travel as far as a regular golf ball, the course set up T-mats about 150 yards from each hole and marked each tee with a Tiki Torch. The pathway from hole to the next tee was marked by sporadic candles. Since it was dark, following these candles reminded me of following a cairn marked trail across a rocky trail in the wilderness. You kind of take it on faith they're taking you where you want to go. Although it worked out most of the time, getting lost was the most fun of all.

The ringer of the night award has to go to the combo of Teresa Koch and Suzanne Vivian. Teresa's drives were always sharp and dead on. From there Suzanne took over with some magical night time putting she couldn't quite explain. As she said "I believe that "glow golf" has improved my putting 1000%. "Use the Force Suzanne, use the Force..... !"

Unfortunately, no pictures were taken. But since it was night, they probably wouldn't have shown much. Perhaps Jan Burrows summed it up best. "I imagine if there were any pictures taken - they'd look like those postcards from a "city at night" which are all black w/a few sets of eyes - of course ours would have green glow necklines just below the eyes."

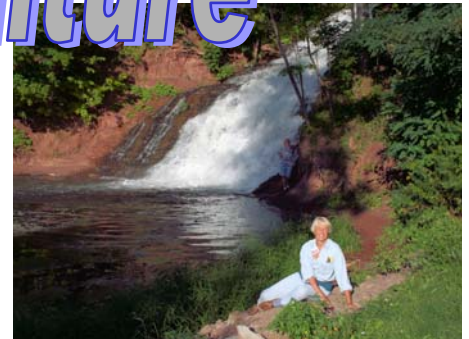

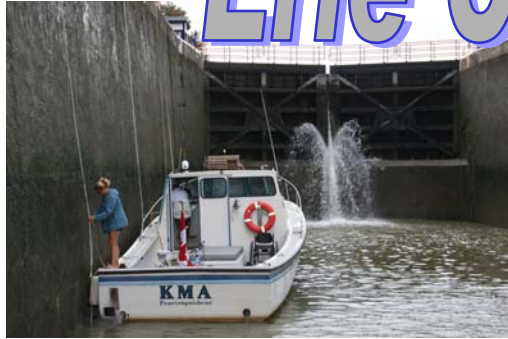

So now you ask, would we, or should we, try it again. Judging from the response of the participants, I think we can look forward to another go next year. Tamara Stipp says "Thank you for putting on this event and for allowing our team to participate. We are already looking forward to doing it next year. We had a BLAST and laughed a lot! It was SO much fun. Anyone who didn't attend missed out."

So there you have it. Next year, nobody should have to miss out.

Erie Canal Adventure

The excitement of going through the locks, starting down in the pit and rising aboard a multi-ton vessel until you can see out over the side.

Drifting through miles and mile of dense foliage with hardly any signs of civilization, and then Coming through to charming towns with concerts on the lawn and museums and waterfalls and bike paths.

Taking a picture of the first bridge you go under and then realizing the historic Erie Canal completely bifurcates the state of New York—the long way—and there are hundreds and hundreds of bridges.

Looking out over the side of the canal and seeing there is a river, or a road, that goes under you and your boat!

Enjoying gourmet meals, courtesy of a chef who's one of the crew.

And the nights, when adult beverages are consumed, and stories are told.

You always know your neighbor, you always know your pal, if you've ever navigated on the Erie Canal.

Euchre Tournament, Sign Up Early

This year's Euchre Tournament has been scheduled for October 24, 2009. Last year, this event had a special rush of signups in the final couple of weeks prior to the actual event and was actually full a week ahead of time; and we were forced to turn away some Euchre Tournament hopefuls. Fortunately, many of those simply showed up for the party and had a great time.

This year, we are encouraging GMSC members to get signed up and get their money in as early as possible in order to guarantee your spot. By signing up early, you not only take advantage of your special discounted price as a GMSC member, but you also guarantee your spot for all the fun and glory that goes with participation in the Tournament.

Euchre Tournament charge:

$10.00 members/ $15.00 Guests.

Party only charge:

$5.00 members, $10.00 Guests.

In putting this directory together, we want to be sure to respect your privacy. If you prefer some or all of your contact information to not be included in this directory, please let me know. You can reach me by phone or by e-mail: 586-899-8203 or Dahlberg7@comcast.net
